FDIC APPROVES DEPOSIT ASSUMPTION OF NATIONAL BANK OF TEXAS, HOUSTON, TEXAS

The Board of Directors of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation has approved the assumption of the deposits and fully secured liabilities of National Bank of Texas, Houston, Texas, by Old Braeswood National Bank, Houston, Texas.

The failed bank's sole office will reopen on Friday, May 20, 1988, as a branch of Old Braeswood National Bank and its depositors automatically will become depositors of the assuming bank, subject to approval by the appropriate court.

National Bank of Texas, with total assets of about $19.9 million, was closed on Thursday, May 19, 1988, by Dean S. Marriott, Senior Deputy Comptroller of the Currency, and the FDIC was named receiver.

Old Braeswood National Bank will assume about $25.1 million in 1,800 deposit accounts and will purchase approximately $11.6 million of the failed bank's assets, including $1.7 million of the bank's small loans at a discount of $362,979.

The Board of Directors approved the deposit assumption under its authority to do so whenever it determines that such a transaction will reduce the potential loss to the FDIC.

The FDIC will recover a portion of its outlay through the liquidation of assets not transferred to the assuming bank. In this respect, the FDIC notes that its claim will have priority over the claims of shareholders of the closed bank.
