FDIC APPROVES DEPOSIT ASSUMPTION OF FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF IRVING, IRVING, TEXAS

The Board of Directors of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation today approved the assumption of the deposit liabilities of First National Bank of Irving, Irving, Texas, by City National Bank of Irving, Irving, Texas, a newly-chartered subsidiary of United City Corporation, Plano, Texas.

The failed bank's only office will reopen on Friday, April 25, 1986, as City National Bank of Irving and its depositors automatically will become depositors of the assuming bank, subject to approval by the appropriate court.

First National Bank of Irving, which had total assets of $34.7 million, was closed on Thursday, April 24, 1986, by Robert J. Herrmann, Deputy Comptroller of the Currency, and the FDIC was named receiver. Mr. Herrmann said: "Rapid growth over the past two years combined with poor lending practices and ineffective supervision resulted in massive deterioration in the overall quality of the bank's loan portfolio."

City National Bank of Irving will assume about $33.5 million in 7,500 deposit accounts and has agreed to pay the FDIC a purchase premium of $1,611,000. It also will purchase certain of the failed bank's loans and other assets for $25.1 million. To facilitate the transaction, the FDIC will advance $7.0 million to the assuming bank and will retain assets of the failed bank with a book value of about $9.6 million.

The Board of Directors approved the deposit assumption under its authority to do so whenever it determines that such a transaction will reduce the potential loss to the FDIC. The Board made such a finding in this case because of the premium paid by City National Bank of Irving.

The FDIC will recover a portion of its outlay through the liquidation of assets not transferred to the assuming bank. In this respect, the FDIC notes that its claim will have priority over the claims of shareholders of the closed bank.
