EIGHT FDIC OFFICIALS PROMOTED TO FILL KEY SUPERVISORY POSTS

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

FDIC Chairman Ricki Helfer announced today that eight veteran FDIC officials have been selected to fill high-level posts within the Corporation's Division of Supervision (DOS). The division's mission is to evaluate and control risk in the financial system, examine federally insured banks, and promote safe and sound financial practices.

Michael J. Zamorski, currently Regional Director of the FDIC's New York Regional Office, will serve in the newly created post of Deputy Director of the Division of Supervision at FDIC headquarters in Washington, D.C. In addition, five regional directors and two deputy regional directors were named.

"The recent retirements of senior staff in the Division of Supervision provided the opportunity for these promotions," said Chairman Helfer. "The FDIC is fortunate to have a cadre of professionals with outstanding credentials who are ready and able to step into these key positions. Together, these individuals bring a wealth of experience to the FDIC's longstanding commitment to the safety and soundness of banks."

Appointments announced in five of the Division of Supervision's eight regions include:

The New York Region includes Delaware, the District of Columbia, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Congress created the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation in 1933 to restore public confidence in the nation's banking system. It promotes the safety and soundness of these institutions by identifying, monitoring and addressing risks to which they are exposed. The FDIC receives no federal tax dollars — insured financial institutions fund its operations.
