Thomas J. Dujenski Named FDIC Dallas Regional Director

Thomas J. Dujenski, a 25-year FDIC veteran, has been appointed FDIC Regional Director for the Division of Supervision and Consumer Protection's (DSC) Dallas Region. He has been serving as Deputy Regional Director (Risk Management) for the Kansas City Region.

Mr. Dujenski will oversee the FDIC's bank supervisory activities in Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Arkansas, New Mexico, Louisiana, Tennessee and Mississippi. The Dallas Region supervises 986 FDIC-insured institutions with assets of $248 billion.

Reporting to Mr. Dujenski are M. Anthony Lowe, Deputy Regional Director (Risk Management), and Julie V. Banfield, Deputy Regional Director (Compliance Management).

"Tom brings a wealth of supervisory experience and skill to this position," said DSC Director Sandra Thompson. "He is also a proven leader who has demonstrated sound judgment throughout his long career with the FDIC. I am pleased to have Tom on our senior management team."

Mr. Dujenski joined the FDIC in 1983. Previously, Mr. Dujenski served as Acting Regional Director in the FDIC's Atlanta Region and Acting Deputy Regional Director in San Francisco. He has led and participated in a number of policy initiatives and interagency projects on bank supervisory issues.

Mr. Dujenski holds an MBA from St. Bonaventure University and a Bachelor of Science Degree in Business Administration from State University of New York. He also holds several certifications as a Regulatory Compliance Manager, Fraud Examiner, and Anti-Money Laundering Specialist, and is a graduate of the Stonier School of Banking.

Congress created the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation in 1933 to restore public confidence in the nation's banking system. It promotes the safety and soundness of these institutions by identifying, monitoring and addressing risks to which they are exposed. The FDIC receives no federal tax dollars — insured financial institutions fund its operations.
