Risk Management Planning Seminar for 2001

The Federal Financial Institutions Examination Council (FFIEC) announces the location and date for its 2001 Risk Management Planning Seminar.

Who Should Attend:

Financial institution chief executive officers, directors, chief operating officers, chief financial officers and other executive level officers of banks, thrifts, and credit unions.

Objectives of Program:

To encourage top management to establish or improve systems that facilitate bank-wide risk management and to discuss issues in risk management with regulators.

Location and Date:

San Francisco
October 11-12, 2001
The Westin St. Francis, Union Square
335 Powell Street

Conference Times:

Registration begins Thursday at 7:30 a.m.
Opening Address begins Thursday at 8:30 a.m.
Conference ends Friday at 12:00 noon

Program Topic: "Identifying and Managing Technology Risks"

With the successful transition of the industry beyond the initial year 2000 date change, technology continues to grow as an increasingly complicated operational risk area that requires new knowledge and expanded risk management techniques. While not ignoring traditional risks, we believe the 2001 Risk Management Planning Seminar can provide the most value to the industry by providing senior bank management with an update on the risks/benefits of these emerging technologies and the evolving regulatory responses.

Agenda Updates: Will be available on our Web Site as formalized: <http://www.ffiec.gov>.
